Interim SYTF Plan

Determining Possible Investments

Process to prepare for today's meeting:

1. Compiled all identified possible solutions for each topic area
2. Color coded each solution
 - Yellow for communication, coordination, process-based solutions
 - Green for solutions that require funding

*Example from Family
Engagement
Identified
Solutions Section*

- Define family members as who the young person identifies as family members, not defined by the system
- Use unrestricted, flexible funds to directly support young people and families of young people on probation, in OOHP, or in a SYTF
- Incorporate more credible messengers for young people and for families as both young people and adults need healing – create mentorship opportunities for families so that they have the support to support their loved one
- Families should be involved in creation of young person's case plans

Determining Possible Investments

3. Pulled out all the funding-based solutions
4. Given that we are submitting a plan for Year One, for some solutions:
 - a) the cost is too high to meet with Year One funding
 - b) the timeline is too long to achieve in Year One

- Incentivize and create independent, relational, supportive housing provided by providers who are building specifically for this population and create portal for housing throughout the Bay Area specifically for this population
- Create and fund justice-involved TAY-specific housing options
- Create and incorporate alternative, indigenous, mindfulness practices, programs, and services for young people and their families
- Create and distribute incentives for families to encourage their participation in therapy, activities, bonding experiences, etc.

Determining Possible Investments

5. Grouped those solutions that were similar together
 - For example: credible messengers were mentioned 12 separate times; direct funding was mentioned 10 times; and whole family support was mentioned in a multitude of ways over 50 times
6. Created a table with the solutions that were mentioned repeatedly and which could also be funded and implemented in Year One
7. We will review this table together – any solutions that are missing, let's add them!

Request For Proposals (RFP) Process

- Most of the JJRBG funding will be allocated through competitive solicitations
- In order to be eligible for that funding, organizations will have to apply through a competitive application process, called a “Request for Proposals”:
 - The subcommittee informs the RFP that outlines the kind of programming needed, desired outcomes, desired qualifications of the provider, etc.
 - Organizations apply for these funds to deliver the programs as described in the RFP
 - A diverse panel reviews and scores the applications
- Subcommittee members from organizations that intend to apply for funds will play a more limited role in the above process
