

San Francisco Department of Public Health

Tecovirimat (TPOXX) Prescribing Sites

The antiviral drug tecovirimat (TPOXX) is available directly via healthcare providers at the following health systems throughout the city. If you are a patient within one of these health systems and think you might need TPOXX, ask your provider if TPOXX is right for you:

- Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital/San Francisco Health Network Clinics
- University of California, San Francisco
- Kaiser Permanente
- California Pacific Medical Center – Van Ness
- San Francisco Veterans Affairs Medical Center
- Mission Neighborhood Health Center

If you are not a patient at one of the health systems or clinics above and you have been diagnosed with MPX and think you might need TPOXX, you can contact the below sites to learn more about TPOXX*.

SF City Clinic Call the nursing line (628-217-6695)

SFAF Strut Call the MPX hotline (628-212-8038)

Carbon Health Call 415-612-3275

STOMP Study If you have symptoms of MPX and are interested in participating in a clinical trial evaluating the effectiveness of tecovirimat, call 415-535-9495, or send an email to ID-Research.ZSFG@ucsf.edu. You can find more information about the STOMP Study here.

While TPOXX has no cost associated with it, there may be a cost associated with the visit. Please contact the site directly to learn more about associated costs.*