|  | When you have a $790 million budget deficit, as San Francisco's city government does this year, it's time for belt-tightening, not more spending. But instead of acting responsibly, members of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors have stuffed our ballot with measures that, in the words of the San Francisco Chronicle's editorial board, "would hand out new multimillion-dollar pension benefits like they were Tic Tacs." Supervisor Asha Safai's Proposition I is one of these measures. Caving in to the demands of powerful employee unions is not a good look for someone running for mayor. San Francisco has a bloated city government with 60 departments and over 34,000 employees. And even this is likely understating the true scope of local government, because according to the recent Civil Grand Jury report, it also maintains contracts with over 600 non-profits. If city departments supposedly can't attract enough registered nurses or 911 operators, perhaps part of the problem is that too many potential employees are already working for the government in other less necessary capacities? Government can't keep paying its employees more and more, while continuing to expand their numbers. The burden on the rest of the city's taxpayers, including both residents and businesses, will just keep growing and become more and more unsustainable. It's time to stop the insanity. Vote NO on Prop.
