	Firefighters have risky jobs with lengthy shifts. When they put themselves at great risk to help others, they truly are heroes. They voluntarily chose this career field despite the risks. San Francisco firefighters hired after Jan 6, 2012 also were made aware of the new full pension retirement age of 58 (it was previously 55). The modification to the pension age was needed due to decades of fiscal mismanagement by the city government. By increasing employee contribution rates for hires after that date, voters were protecting firefighters pensions. Expenses needed to be trimmed. San Francisco avoided bankruptcy during the 2008 to 2012 bust cycle. Other cities in California were not so lucky – the state experienced multiple municipal bankruptcies. Now, politicians are putting forth a ballot measure to overturn voters' prudent action. Why? The ballot measure claims "the financial outlook of the San Francisco Employees Retirement System has improved significantly". During a boom cycle this might be true, yet there seems to be a lack of planning for the next bust. The boom/bust cycle won't end as long as government meddling in the monetary system prevents natural market corrections from occurring. Kind of like how "no burn" forest management rules heighten the eventual risk of devastating fires. Let's vote no on this ballot measure and have a proactive city government that protects itself against future bankruptcy while not increasing the tax burden upon its citizens. Better to explore ways to protect firefighters and reward them for their heroic service which do not increase unsustainable future spending obligations. Vote NO on Proposition H. Libertarian Party of San Francisco LPSF.org
