Programs emphasize...

- Client's active involvement in their own treatment planning
- Flexible, individualized treatment goals
- Appropriate risk-taking to learn new skills
- Support from diverse, well-trained staff

We believe treatment for serious mental illness and associated social challenges occurs best in a planned socialrelational situation. This social approach to rehabilitation draws on the therapeutic value of everyday, normalized experiences - such as meals and chores - to help our clients gain skills and build healthy relationships in homelike environments.

To receive service for yourself, a family member, or a friend into a Residential Treatment - Program, you will need a referral from mental health clinician.
